FILIBUSTERISM.

Movement for the Annexation of Cuba.

From the New York World.

The highly important events that have transpired in Spain during the last five weeks, which have resulted in the overthrow of one of the oldest thrones on the European Continent, has drawn the attention of adventurous and filibustering Americans to the unprotected or weak state of the defenses of the ever faithful Isle of Cuba.

An expedition, or rather series of expeditions, are now in process of fitting out, the objective point of such being some central point for general concentration in New York, Mobile, Boston and New Orleans. The object of these several expeditions, when united, is the annexation of Cuba.

Communication has been established between the leading insurgents now in arms against the authority of the Captain General, Lora, and the different chiefs of the movement in the United States. In New York City the acknowledged leader of the filibustering movement is a school teacher, George W. Gibbons, who has held a commission and served in the volunteer force employed during the late war. Col. Gibbons is about twenty eight years of age, is a man of powerful frame, and when a man in a good under the ill-fated General William Walker, in his Nicaraguan filibustering movement.

THE ORGANIZATION.

The organization of the movement is as follows:

First—From the City of New York 2500 men will embark in a steamer chartered. These men will be armed with revolvers, but will not have with them any larger arms or artillery, as it will be impossible to evade the United States authorities with such bulky munitions. But the vessel will carry twenty days' provisions for the number of men which will be embarked some point on the coast, from whence they will march to the mountains. Once there it will be impossible to drive them from their strong hold until the native patriots have rallied in good numbers.

Second—The expedition from Boston will consist of eight hundred men, armed, but well equipped by men who have served in New England regiments. These men will also take with them twenty days' provisions, so as to enable the Cuban patriots to remain in their defenses and resist the Spanish veterans. It is possible that small boats will accompany this part of the general movement.

But the main and most important movement will be from New Orleans, the principal column from Louisiana. Three thousand men will leave New Orleans in fitted vessels, and will be conveyed by a large and fast steam steamer, and with her, or at a different day or night, another fast vessel will sail, carrying stores, artillery and provisions for the expedition. The body will be under General Harry Hays or General Charles F. Henningsen, of Nicaragua and Hungarian revolutionary fame.

Colonel James Kerrigan, formerly of the 25th New York Infantry, is to lead a separate column in the New York contingent. Colonel Gibbons has been the recipient of ninety-four letters, offering assistance within the past few days, and a number of small boats will accompany this force. The city has offered $60,000 worth of shot and ammunition toward the cause.

Two great difficulties present themselves to the filibusters in this projected invasion of Cuba. First, it is doubtful if the United States will wink at the invasion of the island of Cuba, which is proclaimed the district of Santiago is proclaimed and Marantillo, where it is probable that a large body of invaders would have to land by reason of the peculiar configuration of the coast, and at least intelligence in the hands of the Spanish troops. The principal officers in command of the rebel Cubans are Colonel Aguilera and General Cespedes, the last, who has been a very wealthy slaveholder, being a very brave and efficient officer. Colonel Cabrera, Colonel Diaz, and several other officers have hoisted the standard of revolt, and it is impossible to doubt that the invasion will have overspread all Cuba up to the gates of Havana, in twenty days. Nearly every newspaper editor in the Island of Cuba enters, sympathizes, or is directly implicated in the revolt; and Lersundi has been almost driven crazy with the complicated trouble that have poured down upon his devoted head.

RECRUITING OFFICES.

Recruiting offices will be opened in different parts of this city to-morrow. They will not be called recruiting offices, but will have the name "Cuban Emigration Bureaus." Emigrants will be received and their names taken down, and oaths will be administered to them on promise of strict secrecy to obey the principal "emigrants." The greatest difficulty will be to evade the United States authorities. However, Marshal Murray will have another opportunity to betray American citizens into the hands of the Cuban Captain Generals, as should the unfortunate expedition under poor Lopez in August, 1851.

INTERVIEW WITH COLONEL GIBBONS.

Our revolutionary reporter paid a visit to Colonel Gibbons yesterday morning at his headquarters, at No. 446 Broome street. The entrance is up a flight of half a dozen brown stone steps. The Colonel is a powerfully built man, with jet black eyes, and hair of the same color. He was attired simply but richly in a black broadcloth suit, and was conversing with our reporter, a courteous woman, when our reporter entered. The Colonel stretched out his leg, and looking sternly at a not very good-looking small boy, said to the ill-favored small boy:

"As that gentleman what he wants?"

"I want to see you, mister?"

"I wish to hold a few minutes' conversation with Col. Gibbons, if he is in."

The Colonel throwing his leg into an easy attitude: "That's my name, sir. What can I do for you?"

"I call upon you for information regarding a proposed filibustering movement against the Island of Cuba."

Colonel Gibbons (throwing his majestic face across the room): "Well, sir, as you know that you are a reporter, sir?"

Reporter: "I can satisfy you, sir."

(Documents being produced, the Colonel seemed satisfied, and leans back in his chair with a happy smile on his face.)

"Well, that will do, sir. Now for it. There is a movement on foot against Cuba. A decided and determined movement, that will shake Spanish tyranny to its base. Yes, sir. And at once, we will free that people, sir, by eternal laws."

Reporter (meekly): "What are the means at your disposal for effective use, Colonel?"

Colonel Gibbons: "We will have ten thousand men, sir, in twenty days."

"And you think that ten thousand men, sir, will be sufficient to overthrow the present government of Cuba?"

"I think that ten thousand men, sir, will be sufficient to overthrow the present government of Cuba."

"And you think that ten thousand men, sir, will be sufficient to overthrow the present government of Cuba?"

"I think that ten thousand men, sir, will be sufficient to overthrow the present government of Cuba."

"And you think that ten thousand men, sir, will be sufficient to overthrow the present government of Cuba?"
